Rams in Detroit; Matson Pursues Record

The Detroit Lions, who ended their four-game losing streak at the expense of the Los Angeles Rams recently at the Coliseum, will try for a repeat performance today when they host Coach Sid Gillman's club in Briggs Stadium. If the Rams win in Detroit, it will duplicate the mark made last year when Los Angeles lost to Detroit in the Coliseum, and won from the Lions in Briggs Stadium. In 27 games in the Rams-Lion series played since 1946, Los Angeles has won 17 and Detroit 10. L.A. is favored slightly. The vital clash will be telecast "live" from Detroit with sportscaster Bob Kelly calling the play-by-play, Elroy Hirsch explaining the important plays and Gil Stratton, Sports Director of KNXT describing the color on "professional football," (10:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. Rolling along in third place in the National League rushing standings, just 9 yards behind J. D. Smith of the 49'ers, Ollie Matson is having his greatest year since 1956 when he gained 924 yards in a Chicago Cardinal uniform. Matson has gained 687 yards in seven games on 116 carries for a 5.90 average an average of 98 yards per game. If he continues on this basis in the final five games, Ollie will surpass all Ram records for ball carrying in one season. The record is held by Deacon Dan Towler of 894 yards, set in 1952. Bill Wade connecting on 62% of his passes, far better than all the other National League passers this year.
